OLD PAPERS FOR SALE

IT WAS BRUTALITY.

ATT'Y-GEN'L MONTAGUE SO SPEAKS OF GEN. BUTLER'S ORDER.

EMPHATIC DENUNCIATION.

The Attorney-General Discusses the Treatment of the Third Virginia, and Gives Forcible Expression to His Views Regarding It.

Samuel Fitzgerald was the prisoner of "I think General Butler's order a piece importance in the court of Justice John of clear-cut, gratuitous brutality, an investerday morning. Samuel was charged dignity put upon the regiment and the with breaking into the place of business people of the State without cause and of the Frictionless Metal Company, with intent to steal. He was caught in the building by Policeman W. T. Foster and Private-Watchman T. J. Smither. After a short recital of the facts Justice John without a parallel."

It was thus that Attorney-General Montague, after his return from Camp Alger and Washington yesterday afternoon, characterized the action of Major-General Butler regarding the Third Virginia Regiment.

a short recital of the facts Justice John committed him to the tender mercies of the grand jury.

James Ragnail, a colored youth, was the next prisoner. He was charged with entering the residence of Rev. George F. Williams, on Church Hill, and stealing a pocket-book and an umbrella. Ragnail, however, was not identified as the thief, and was discharged.

Toblas S. Christian is the colored individual who was attacked by a calf while coming to Richmond Wednesday, and who, in a reprehensible spirit of revenge, brought the juvenile bovine to town and Mr. Montague went to Camp Alger in response to a telegram from a number of the officers of the regiment who wished him to advise them regarding the course best to be pursued in view of the strangely and unexpectedly unjust manner in which General Butler had acted brought the juvenile bovine to town and tried to sell it. He was given six months towards them. Mr. Montague is, by nature, a man of extreme prudence and conservatism, so that his force and Charles Stein admitted striking John H. warmth in discussing General Butler's Brill in the First Market, and was fined conduct makes it certain that the general epinion that the regiment had been treated unjustly was correct.

Mr. Montague had just returned from Washington and was seated at his desk when the Dispatch reporter entered. During the conversation he remained seated the greater portion of the time, but once he rose to his feet to discuss the conduct of General Butler and the humiliation of the Virginians.

OFFICERS AND MEN PRISONERS. "I found the entire regiment practically under arrest," he said. "Not an officer nor a man is allowed to leave camp without permission, and this is refused by Major-General Butler. Every day there is detailed from the regiment between three hundred and four hundred men to stand guard and see that nobody passes out of the lines. General Butler has said in general orders that the en-tire regiment is in disgrace, and officers and men feel acutely the humiliation to which they are subjected. "But subjected unjustly," continued

PLUMBERS TO GET PERMITS.
Dr. Oppenhimer, President of the Board of Health, presented a paper from the inspector of Plumbing, asking for certain amendments to the ordinance regulating olumbing, so that all plumbers shall be required to secure permits to do work in any house. Dr. Oppenhimer explained that the Inspector wished these amendments made so that he might be aware of all the work that was done. The change, he said, was for the protection of the citizens, in order that all work done might be inspected, thus assuring its being done properly. The matter was referred to a sub-committee consisting of Messrs. Camp and Gibson, to report at the next meeting. Mr. Montague with warmth. "General Butler is proceeding in a manner which merits the condemnation of every good soldier and every fair-minded man. He will receive it after an investigation into all the circumstances shall have been had. He has judged and is punishing the whole regiment for an offence charged to only a few and that without investigation. He alleges, I know, that he saw the attack upon the negro, and that he knows of the circumstance by personal observation. The accounts which he gives of the affair differ in the widest cossible manner from that given by the officers and men of the regiment. I do not desire to bring any charges against anybody, but I do not believe I can find anywhere a man, or a set of men, whom I would sooner trust to speak the truth on any matter coming under their obser-vation than my acquaintances in the Third Virginia Regiment-officers and men-and they are absolutely a unit contradicting the story told by General

WILL BE A WORKING BOARD.

Dr. Oppenhimer stated to the committee that the Board of Health met and organized Wednesday night. The first work of that body, he said, would be a complete recodification of the rules governing the board, which would be an aggressive body, and go hand in hand with the Health Committee, the object of both being the preservation of the health of the city.

A few other matters of a routine nature were attended to, and the committee adjourned. "I do not know what will be the procedure in the court of inquiry which is to deal with the matter, but this I know, that if it were to be passed upon in a court of law General Butler would lose his case. The overwhelming preponderance of testimony would be against him.
A DELIBERATE CHARGE.
"General Butler's entire course," said

Mr. Montague with deliberate emphasis, is a piece of clear-cut, gratuitous der of Good Templars, attended the regu-lar weekly convocation at Lee Camp Hall. brutality. His order is an indignity put upon the regiment and the people of the State without cause and without a par-

The only business transacted by those present was the election of delegates and Mr. Montague and Mr. Park Agnew on Wednesday, the 17th, beginning at 3 P. M. at Lee Camp Hall, as follows: Wil-liam Hall Crewe, William A. Stubbs, and United States Internal Revenue Collec tor at Alexandria, called on the Secre tary of War, and discussed the matte Miss Lillian V. Hutton delegates and C. G. Fink, Miss Lovely Smith, and Joseph length. Secretary Alger was, course, reticent regarding the trouble but assured them it would have the fullest investigation.

Court of Inquiry is expected to sit and investigate the matter within a short time, but the time has not been fixed. There is not a shadow of doubt but that the regiment will be exonerated.

GOVERNOR COULD NOT GO. Governor Tyler did not reach Camp Al ger, though he had started thither in re sponse to a telegram similar to the one sent Mr. Montague, but he was recalled by the illness of Hal, his youngest son. Senator Martin has been taking great in-terest in the affair, and Mr. Montague warmly commended the promptness and energy with which Mr. Park Agnew did all possible to relieve the condition of the

Who General Butler Is.

There is naturally a great deal of surprise expressed here at the manner in which General Butler has acted. He is a southern man, supposed to be in sympa with southern soldiers, nobody wanted or expected him to do more than simple justice. He seems to have lost his head. He had the reputation of being a man of remarkably cool judgment, and there was pleasure manifested by the Virginia soldiers when assigned to his command. The war record of General Butler, his record in the Senate of the United States, and his general reputation of being of the salt of the earth, as an army officer, ex-pressed it to a Dispatch reporter last night, made the opinion universal that he would make an ideal commander. There seems to have been an all-around mistake.

A picture of General Butler was unveiled in Lee Camp Hall last fall, Mr. William L. Royali making the presentation speech, and General Fitzhugh Lee the speech of acceptance.
